

ECMI Launches the Project “Enhance and Integrate Community Concerns within the Work of the Government”
20 January 2010

In December 2009, ECMI Kosovo initiated the project “Enhance and Integrate Community Concerns within the Work of the Government” supported by the Federal Department of Foreign Affairs of Switzerland. This project is a continuation of the previous projects of support to the Office of the Prime Minister.

Two events, a workshop on “Parliamentary Best Practices” and a ceremonial conference entitled “Office of the Prime Minister’s Work for the Protection and Promotion of Community Rights”, were held respectively on the 14 and 15 January in order to launch the project.

The project “Enhance and Integrate Community Concerns within the Work of the Government” builds on the previous project of support to the Office of the Prime Minister. The main accomplishments of this previous initiatives were the creation of the EthnoPolitical Map of Kosovo; the publication of “Communities in Kosovo”, a comprehensive guidebook including all relevant information on Kosovo communities, the legal and institutional framework for community rights protection, the decentralisation process and its impact on communities, as well as an overview of the mechanisms available to community members to address violation of their rights; the production of a booklet for members of communities, “Communities: Know you Rights”, presenting the legal framework in an accessible manner, designed as a tool for communities to advocate for their rights; the facilitation of the drafting of the Office for Community Affairs (OCA/OPM) operational strategy; as well as the production of a study on the employment of non-majority communities within the civil service and publicly owned enterprises in collaboration with the OCA/OPM.

The overall objective of the current project is to enhance and integrate community concerns within the work of the Government, especially in relation to implementation of legislation and development of policies, through building the capacities of the OCA/OPM and facilitating the participation of community-based civil society organisations in the monitoring and evaluation of the implementation of legislation and policies.

The activities, which will be conducted by ECMI Kosovo, include the development and delivery of a training programme, based on an in-depth capacity-assessment, including training on OCA/OPM Terms of Reference, operational strategy and task management system; the production of a best-practices manual including long-lasting procedures for staff development and induction, as well as outcomes of the training programme; the development and transfer of policy-making tools, the EthnoPolitical Map and a legislation and policy database; the assistance and capacity-building of the OCA/OPM with regards to policy-making and coordination activities, in particular in the monitoring of the implementation of the Strategy for the Integration of Roma, Ashkali and Egyptian Communities and the development of a second policy study; and awareness-raising of communities to enhance their capacities to advocate for the respect of their rights.

On 14 January 2010, the Federal Department of Foreign Affairs Switzerland and ECMI Kosovo organised a workshop on “Parliamentary Best Practices” in Villa Germa.

The workshop aimed at sharing parliamentary experience from Switzerland with members of Assembly Committee for the Rights and Interests of Communities (CRIC) and the Consultative Council for Communities (CCC) in preparation for the CRIC upcoming study visit in Switzerland. A documentary film “Corn in the Parliament” was screened followed by a discussion, in which provided their perspectives from the experience in Kosovo.
